John 16:20

Sorrow, Then Joy

Verily, verily, I say unto you, That ye shall weep and lament, but the world shall rejoice: and
ye shall be sorrowful,
but your sorrow shall be turned into joy.

This verse has commonly been used to say God's people may have to weep and mourn while the world rejoices.

Jesus was speaking to his disciples shortly before he was to be killed so is there an application in this passage for his disciples today? That could be debated, but why must any of God's people ever have to cry or be unhappy?

Jesus also said the sorrows would be replaced by joy.

How much joy does
it take to sufficiently compensate for sorrow?
